When you need to hire temporary personnel for your lab, chances are you have two basic requirements.

- 1. They have to be qualified.
- 2. They have to be available when you need them.

Call the one company that specializes in filling both of those requirements.

EMILIO DADDARIO

Emilio Quincy Daddario is a graduate of Wesleyan University ('39) and The University of Connecticut Law School ('42). He was Captain of the football team at Wesleyan and during Law School played with the Providence Steam-rollers in the old American Football Association. During World War II he served with the Special Intelligence Branch of the Office of Strategic Services. That activity was of particular importance because it emphasized that the enemy strength went beyond its military composition. The logistical support and make-up of the civilian industrial sector and its available scientific and technical manpower became necessary targets of intelligence gathering. The German heavy-water program, the V-2 Rockets, and the Jet-Aircraft development became of obvious importance. That experience caused Daddario, when he became Chairman of the newly formed Sub-Committee on Science, REsearch & Development, to call on the scientific and technical community to participate in a wide variety of hearings and advisory relationships. That involvement benefitted and widened the dialogue within the civilian and governmental sectors.

Daddario's relationship with the National Academy of Sciences is of biographical importance. In the early 1960s Dr. Fred Seitz, then the President of the Academy, introduced Daddario to a new Academy Committee on Science and Public Policy chaired by George Kistiakowsky, Professor of Chemistry at Harvard. Dr. Kistiakowsky had been President Eisenhower's Science Advisor and had proposed the committee in order to assist the Executive Branch. He and his committee saw the importance of working with the Congress and their first report on "Basic Research & National Goals" led to the restructuring of the National Science Foundation and their sequel on "Applied Science & Technological Progress" to the creation of the Office of Technology Assessment.

Since leaving the Congress in 1971, after losing in a Connecticut gubernatorial election, Daddario has maintained his interest in Science and Technology. He was elected President of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, is a member of the National Academy of Science's Institute of Medicine, was a member of the NAS Committee on Science, Engineering & Public Policy, served as Director of the Office of Technology Assessment, was Co-Chairman of the AAAS-ABA Conference on Lawyers and Scientists, Chairman of the AAAS Committee on Governance, and is a member of the Board of Oak Ridge Associated Universities, as examples.

LAB SUPPORT

Our readers have certainly noticed the appearance of Lab Support as a regular advertiser in our pages for 1992. Lab Support is the operating division of On Assignment, Inc. of Canoga Park, California. Since its inception in 1985, the company has grown rapidly, with estimated revenues in 1991 of $27 million.

Lab Support, which has a branch in Baltimore, provides temporary scientific professionals to laboratories in the biotechnology, environmental, chemical, pharmaceutical, food and beverage and petrochemical industries.

Inc. magazine in 1991 ranked Lab Support 62nd among the country's fastest growing privately held companies.

On August 12, 1992, On Assignment, Inc. announced the filing of a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission regarding a proposed initial public offering of 1,700,000 shares of common stock of the corporation.

31st Annual Eastern Analytical Symposium & Exposition

Garden State Convention & Exhibit Center and the Somerset Hilton Hotel
Somerset, New Jersey

November 16 - 20, 1992

33 EAS Workshops
390 Technical Papers
14 EAS Short Courses
Over 200 Exhibit Booths
EAS Employment Bureau

EAS strives to make every Symposium more valuable than the last. In times like these, EAS is committed to being the most valuable technical meeting which you can attend. EAS is a manageable size - high signal, low noise; and we will be in the heart of the Northeast when other meetings are but distant memories!

Some 5000 of your colleagues will join us at the Garden State Convention & Exhibit Center and the Somerset Hilton Hotel as the 31st Annual EAS convenes. Need more details? Contact: The EAS HOTLINE at (302) 738-6218 or the EAS FAXLINE at (302) 738-5275, or write to us at: EAS, P.O. Box 633, Montchanin, DE 19710-0633. Come and see why EAS IS SIMPLY THE BEST!

Further information regarding the 1992 EAS can be found in September issues of Analytical Chemistry, Chemical & Engineering News, and Applied Spectroscopy. If you are already on our mailing list, our Short Course/Workshop flyer issues in August, and the Final Program Announcement appears in September.

EAS is proudly sponsored by the New York and North Jersey Sections of the American Chemical Society; the Delaware Valley, New England, and New York Sections of the Society for Applied Spectroscopy; the American Microchemical Society; and the New York Microscopical Society.
